DOWN MEMORY LANE

Three Centuries Of History

Zakir Husain Delhi College holds the distinction of being in existence well before the establishment of Delhi University. It carries within itself a history of nearly 300 years as an institution of learning. In the closing years of the 17th century, the Madrasa Ghaziuddin, as it was then called, was established by one of the Emperor Aurangzeb's leading Deccan commanders and was famous for education in Literature, Science and Arts. The upheavals that weakened the Mughal Empire during the 18th century resulted in the closure of the Madrasa in the early 1790s, but with the support of the wealthy citizens of Delhi, an oriental college for Literature, Science and Art was established at the site in 1792. Instruction was provided in Prose, Literature, Rhetoric, Logic, Philosophy, Jurisprudence, Astrology and Medicine.

The British East India Company, in 1824, declared the institution to be a center for higher education in the country where the medium of instructions were Persian, Arabic and Sanskrit. It was now called The Delhi College, and it received support through an endowment of Rs. 1,70,000 by Nawab Itmadudduala, the Oudh Vazir in 1829. Soon after that Urdu or Hindustani gained importance and became the chief medium of instruction not only for oriental Sciences and Literature, but also for the study of Astronomy and Mathematics based on European principles, which had been introduced and enthusiastically received by teachers and students as early as 1827. The translation of scientific treatises, Greek classics and Persian works into Urdu was taken up by the Vernacular Society which was set up in 1832. Within the space of two decades it published works covering a range of subjects including Mathematics, Science, Philosophy, History, Surgery, Geography, Political Economy, Civil Law and Principles of Legislation. Its remarkable achievements were later supplemented by the Society for the Promotion of Knowledge in India.

Throughout the 19th and early 20th century, a diverse socio-cultural and multiracial community evolved around Urdu culture and etiquette. The Delhi College was the focus of this composite urbanity in northern India's premier city because of its proximity to both the geographically, historically and culturally rich old and new aspects of Delhi. A distinguished group of its teachers and student-educationists, mathematicians, historians and literatures- became the center of a scientific and literary flowering that would be referred to as the 'Delhi Renaissance'. They founded schools, wrote books and textbooks, translated works into Urdu and edited journals.

Apart from preserving traditional systems of knowledge, Delhi College was one of the pioneers in offering English education in the country, providing a constructive engagement between the oriental and western intellectual traditions, particularly before the 1857 revolt. Its popularity can be gauged by the fact that in 1845 of a total strength of 460 students, 418 were studying in the oriental section, while 245 students were learning English. They included 299 Hindus, 146 Muslims and 15 Christians, demonstrating even then, that the college answered to the needs of the city as a whole by providing a distinctly diverse cultural ambience that cherished composite culture and a spirit of mutual accommodation.

On May 11, 1857, the revolutionaries plundered the college, then located at Kashmiri Gate, because it provided Western education.

However, British authorities closed it down after the defeat of the revolt because they suspected the loyalties of its teachers and students.

In 1862, the institution sent candidates for the entrance examination of the Calcutta University. Between 1864 and 1871, intermediate, B.A. and M.A. classes were started with creditable results. Ultimately the imperial government decided to close down the institution, transferring its staff and library to Lahore, despite vociferous protests from the citizens of Delhi.

In 1924, the Anglo-Arabic Intermediate College was started almost 50 years later to answer the “very definite loss to the city occasioned by the transfer of the Delhi Oriental College to Lahore in 1877.” The college was affiliated to Delhi University in 1925, and became one of its constituent degree colleges in 1929.

Following the partition of India, the college was attacked and set on fire by incendiary mobs. Courageous staff members managed to save the Library and office records. Supported by Dr. Zakir Husain and others, the Delhi College was revived as a non-denominational institution in 1948, and was renamed after him in 1975 and managed by the Zakir Husain Memorial Trust. As principal, the legendary Begg Saheb moulded the institution with a deep sense of its historical past, and a culture that even today gives it a distinctive quality.

Within the next decade and a half, the college was shifted to its present location in 1986 outside the Turkman Gate; a location which geographically and symbolically unites Old Delhi with New Delhi, merging old traditions with a constant striving towards progress and modernity. Considering the long standing demand of Delhi College Alumni, spread all over the world, to reintroduce the old name of Delhi College in the present name, the Zakir Husain Memorial Trust in its meeting, held on 26th July 2010 and chaired by its Chairman, Hon'ble Prime Minister Dr. Manmohan Singh, unanimously resolved to rename the college as "Zakir Husain Delhi College". However, what remained unchanged is the institution's commitment to the dissemination of knowledge and the creation of a scientific temper, together with promoting secular, progressive values.

OUR COLLEGE VALUES

Zakir Husain Delhi College has always stood steadfast as a champion of some basic values which have acquired greater relevance in contemporary times. The college in its long history has accommodated students and faculty of different communities. Gradually it has evolved a culture of understanding and respect for difference of caste, creed and religion. On entering the college, every year new students from the “walled city”, from across the river, as also from the South and North of Delhi and other parts of the country, walk into an ambience of composite bearing and harmony.

Education for us in this college is not a mere pursuit for information: what we strive for is a holistic development of character with a commitment to building a strong knowledge base. For this, our teachers, students and employees work together in close association. Not only does the college uphold traditional values of courtesy and regard for the older and the weak, there is also a sensitive concern for justice and a sense of fairness. The alertness to gender equality too is demonstrated amply through a number of awareness programmes organized in the college. As a result there is an atmosphere of good cheer rather than stress on the campus. In deed and spirit we “live by love”.

We believe in freedom of expression but this freedom ought not to become a licence for irresponsible speech or action. Through cultural and academic activities in the college we try to inculcate a multifaceted awareness. Creativity is encouraged and a high standard of arts and culture is maintained year after year. Physical fitness and sports too are not allowed to take a back seat in the college. Students of this college are encouraged to have a scientific temper, a progressive outlook and a grounding in humanistic values. Respect to one another and decency in behaviour being the main planks of humanity, we ensure that our students show decency inside as well as outside the class room. We do not tolerate indecent lifestyles and habits in our campus. These activities always warrant disciplinary action.

We have a firm belief that a healthy physique is essential for a healthy mind. We feel that our students should take a healthy and balanced diet and avoid junk food. A Mother Dairy booth has been set up for this purpose in the college campus. We have declared our campus “PAAN MASALA, GUTKHA AND TOBACCO FREE”. Remember, NO STUDENT would be allowed to use these banned items within our premises. In case of violation, necessary action would be taken which includes EXPULSION FROM THE COLLEGE.

To have a refreshing and green environs on the campus we work hard. It is not a matter of sheer chance that we bag a number of prizes each year at the Delhi University Flower Show. Our students are expected to protect and maintain this green heritage. These traditional Indian values, along with the excellent academic inputs, would definitely help you all blossom into a true human being.

بلندیوں پہ علم کی بڑھے چلو بڑھے چلو

بلندیوں پہ علم کی بڑھے چلو بڑھے چلو

ہے علم ہی سے روشنی، ہے علم ہی سے زندگی

یہ علم ہی کا فیض ہے کہ آدمی ہے آدمی

بلندیوں پہ علم کی بڑھے چلو بڑھے چلو

بڑھاؤ لو چراغ کی ہر ایک جگہ ہو روشنی

مٹا دو نفرتوں کے داغ رہے نہ کوئی دل غمی

بلندیوں پہ علم کی بڑھے چلو بڑھے چلو

سفر میں راہ زن بھی ہے گھٹن بھی ہے تھکن بھی ہے

ابھی ہیں دور منزلیں ابھی قدم رکے نہیں

بلندیوں پہ علم کی بڑھے چلو بڑھے چلو

बुलंदियों पे इल्म की बढ़े चलो बढ़े चलो

बुलंदियों पे इल्म की बढ़े चलो बढ़े चलो

है इल्म ही से रौशनी , है इल्म ही से जिन्दगी

यह इल्म ही का फ़ैज़ है कि आदमी है आदमी

बुलंदियों पे इल्म की बढ़े चलो बढ़े चलो

बढ़ाओ लौ चिराग़ की हर एक जगह हो रौशनी

मिटानो नफ़रतों के दाग़ रहे न कोई दिल ग़मी

बुलंदियों पे इल्म की बढ़े चलो बढ़े चलो

सफ़र में राह ज़न भी है घुटन भी है थकन भी है

अभी हैं दूर मंज़िलें अभी क़दम रूके नहीं

बुलंदियों पे इल्म की बढ़े चलो बढ़े चलो
