History of Three Centuries

The origin of Zakir Husain Delhi College dates back to the founding of a Madarsa by one of emperor Aurangzeb's Deccan commanders, Ghaziuddin Khan in the closing years of the seventeenth-century. In 1825, Delhi College was engrafted onto this institution by the British East India Company's government. In 1828, the college added a new course of study in English language, literature and science. Hence, apart from preserving traditional systems of knowledge, Delhi College was one of the pioneers in offering English education in the country, providing a constructive engagement between the oriental and western intellectual traditions, particularly before the 1857 revolt. Its popularity can be gauged by the fact that in 1845 of a total strength of 460 students, 418 were studying in the oriental section, while 245 students were learning English. They included 299 Hindus, 146 Muslims and 15 Christians, demonstrating even then that the college answered to the needs of the city as a whole by providing a distinctly diverse cultural ambience that cherished composite culture and a spirit of mutual accommodation. In 1842, the college shifted to Dara Shikoh's library near Kashmiri Gate and the Delhi College Translation Society was set up as its adjunct in 1843. The translation into Urdu of books on astronomy, natural philosophy, science, and mathematics by this Society combined with the publication of the college magazines Qiran-us Saadain and Fawaid-un Nazirin from the college press, the Mutba-ul-Uloom contributed to the development of scientific temper among students, which remains a hallmark of this college till this date.

After the revolt of 1857 in which the revolutionaries plundered the college, the institution passed through many vicissitudes. British authorities closed it down after the suppression of the revolt because they suspected the loyalties of its teachers and students. In 1862, the institution sent candidates for the entrance examination of the Calcutta University. Between 1864 and 1871, intermediate, B.A. and M.A. classes were started with creditable results. Ultimately the imperial government decided to close down this centre of learning in 1877, transferring its staff and library to Government College, Lahore despite vociferous protests from the citizens of Delhi.

In 1924, the Anglo-Arabic Intermediate College was started almost 50 years later to answer this loss to the city. The college was affiliated to Delhi University in 1925, and became one of its constituent degree colleges in 1929. Following the partition of India, the college was attacked and set on fire by incendiary mobs. Courageous staff members managed to save the Library and office records. Supported by Dr. Zakir Husain and others, the Delhi College was revived as a non-denominational institution in 1948 and was renamed after him in 1975 and managed by the Zakir Husain Memorial Trust. As principal, the legendary Mirza Mehmood Beg moulded the institution with a deep sense of its historical past, and a culture that even today gives it a distinctive quality.

In 1986, the college campus shifted to its present location outside Turkman Gate, a location which geographically and symbolically unites Old Delhi with New Delhi, merging old traditions with a constant striving towards progress and modernity. The new campus consists of Academic Block, Science Block, Auditorium Block, Administrative Block, and Canteen Block.

Considering the longstanding demand of Delhi College Alumni, spread all over the world, to reintroduce the old name of Delhi College in the present name, the Zakir Husain Memorial Trust in its meeting, held on 26th July 2010 and chaired by Hon'ble Prime Minister Dr. Manmohan Singh, unanimously resolved to rename the college as "Zakir Husain Delhi College". However, what remained unchanged is the institution's commitment to dissemination of knowledge and the creation of a scientific temper, together with promoting secular, progressive values. Another important chapter in the college History has been added recently with the completion of the new eight storied building where the classes will commence very soon.

300 YEARS OF HERITAGE

Our College Values

Zakir Husain Delhi College has always stood steadfast as a champion of some basic values which have acquired greater relevance in contemporary times. The college in its long history has accommodated students and faculty from diverse communities. Gradually it has evolved a culture of understanding and respect for varied castes, creeds, regions and religions. On every year new students from different parts of the country and also from neighboring countries walk into an ambience of composite culture and linguistic harmony in the college.

Education for us in this college is not a mere pursuit for information: what we strive for is a holistic development of character with a commitment to building a strong knowledge base. Not only does the college uphold traditional values of courtesy and regard for the older and the weak, there is also a sensitive concern for justice and a sense of fairness. Alertness to gender equality too is demonstrated amply through a number of awareness programmes organized in the college. In deed and spirit, we “live by love”.

Through cultural and academic activities in the college we try to inculcate a multifaceted awareness. Creativity is encouraged and a high standard of arts and culture is maintained year after year. Physical fitness and sports too are not allowed to take a back seat in the college. The students are also encouraged to take pride in the nation and join the national cadet corp as cadets.

We have a firm belief that a healthy physique is essential for a healthy mind. Students are advised to avoid junk food and take a healthy and balanced diet. A Mother Dairy booth has been set up for this purpose in the college campus. Our commitment to the creation of a truly healthy environment is reflected in the prohibition on the use of paan masala, gutkha and tobacco within college premises.

Our college staff strives to create refreshing and green environment on the campus. The college green bag of a number of prizes each year at the University of Delhi Flower Show. The cell for Career Counselling and Placement has been set up in the college to offer the students a sense of direction and an exposure to the range of professional openings and job opportunities available to them as they pass out of the college. The Cell, as envisioned, will not limit itself to becoming a run-of-the-mill 'placement' centre where students may just get connected with possible employers. - become confident and build a strong sense of self-identity through workshops on self-development
- create a strong base for work ethics
- provide them exposure to different kinds of career options
- offer information about various entrance exams and scholarships available for higher education in India and abroad, invite agencies/ NGOs/ corporate sector/ institutions/ training agencies etc. for placement of the outgoing students who seek jobs.

بلندیوں پہ علم کی بڑھے چلو بڑھے چلو

ہے علم ہی سے روشنی، ہے علم ہی سے زندگی

یہ علم ہی کا فیض ہے کہ آدمی ہے آدمی

بلندیوں پہ علم کی بڑھے چلو بڑھے چلو

بڑھاؤ لو چراغ کی ہر ایک جگہ ہو روشنی

مٹا دو نفرتوں کے داغ رہے نہ کوئی دل غمی

بلندیوں پہ علم کی بڑھے چلو بڑھے چلو
