Career Profile

I am Dr. Vandana Sharma, currently serve as an Assistant Professor of Philosophy at Zakir Husain Delhi College, University of Delhi. My academic journey has been deeply rooted in the study of Indian philosophy, metaphysics, and environmental ethics. I completed my Post Doctorate as an ICSSR Fellow at Lal Bahadur Shastri Sanskrit Vidyapeeth, Delhi (2021-2023), focusing on Indian philosophical traditions and their contemporary relevance. My Ph.D. in Philosophy from Annamalai University, Tamil Nadu (2016-2021), supported by a Junior Research Fellowship from the Indian Council of Philosophical Research (ICPR), allowed me to delve into Advaita Vedānta and its ontological perspectives. Prior to that, I earned my M.A. in Philosophy, Religion & Culture (Śaivism) from Annamalai University (2013-2015), where I explored the intersections between Śaiva Siddhānta and Vedantic traditions. My undergraduate degree, a B.Sc. in Hotel Management, Culture & Tourism from Soorya Institute of Hotel Management, Pondicherry, Annamalai University (2005-2008), provided me with an interdisciplinary foundation that later influenced my research in ecotourism and sustainability.

Beyond my formal degrees, I have pursued specialized training in Indian philosophical thought and Yogic traditions. I obtained a Certificate in Advanced Advaita Vedānta Darśana from the Chinmaya Mission Foundation, Kerala (2019-2020), where I engaged in an in-depth study of Adi Śaṅkarācārya's teachings. Additionally, I completed a Certificate in Yoga, Meditation & Prāṇāyāma from Morarji Desai National Institute of Yoga, Delhi (2015-2016), integrating Yogic practices into my philosophical research on consciousness and holistic well-being.

My areas of specialization include Indian Metaphysics, particularly Advaita Vedānta, Śaiva Siddhānta, and Upanishadic non-dualism, focusing on concepts such as Brahman, Ātman, and Māyā. I have a keen interest in Indian Epistemology, analyzing Advaita theories of knowledge alongside Nyāya-Vaiśeṣika logic and Jaina Syādvāda. My research extends into Environmental Ethics and Eco-Philosophy, where I explore Vedic environmental principles, the sustainability ethics embedded in Dharmaśāstra, and the ecological significance of Yajña traditions. Additionally, I work on the Philosophy of Consciousness, examining Indian perspectives on Cit and Cidānanda in relation to contemporary cognitive science. My academic inquiries also include Comparative Indian Philosophy, Indian Aesthetics and Cultural Heritage, and the ethical frameworks of Ahimsā-darśana as reflected in Advaita Vedānta, Jainism, and Buddhist Karuṇā theory.

Throughout my career, I have actively contributed to academia through research, publications, and conference presentations. I have authored several books, including Environmental Consciousness and the Nine Schools of Indian Philosophy, Nature's Wisdom: Indian Philosophical Insights, and Śaṅkara Vedānta for Environmental Harmony, each reflecting my engagement with Indian philosophical traditions and their environmental applications. I have published extensively in peer-reviewed national and international journals on topics ranging from Vedic philosophy to contemporary environmental concerns. My research has been presented at esteemed platforms such as the XXV World Congress of Philosophy in Rome, the Dharma-Dhamma International Conference at Nalanda University, and the Asian Philosophical Congress.

In addition to my academic endeavors, I have organized and chaired national and international seminars, including discussions on Vedānta, Yogic philosophy, and environmental sustainability. I have also led research projects, such as Atharvaveda and Cultural Inheritance: A Comprehensive Study in View of Environmental Harmony, supported by the Indian Institute of Advanced Studies, Shimla, and a project on the Kedarnath Dhama 2013 Tragedy under the Ministry of Culture. My commitment to philosophical discourse extends beyond academia into public engagement through media, podcasts, and online platforms, where I discuss the relevance of Indian thought in contemporary contexts. My goal is to bridge the wisdom of ancient Indian philosophy with modern challenges, fostering a deeper understanding of ecological consciousness, ethics, and spiritual well-being.

Administrative Assignments

As an administrative staff member, my key responsibilities include overseeing daily student attendance by maintaining detailed attendance registers and monitoring student presence, absences, and late arrivals. I am responsible for creating and updating marksheets and performance sheets, which involves compiling and organizing students' academic scores from various assessments. I meticulously document continuous assessments, recording students' ongoing performance in class participation, assignments, quizzes, and projects. Additionally, I handle the documentation of internal assessments, ensuring proper record-keeping of evaluation criteria, student performance, and feedback. My role requires me to maintain these records both digitally and in physical formats, making them readily accessible for faculty meetings, parent consultations, and administrative reviews. I ensure regular updates and backups of all documentation to maintain accuracy and facilitate smooth academic operations. Through careful attention to detail and systematic organization, I help maintain the integrity of student academic records and support the institution's educational objectives.

Areas of Interest / Specialization

1. Indian Metaphysics (Ontological Studies) – Specialization in Advaita Vedānta, Śaiva Siddhānta, and Upanishadic non-dualism, with a focus on concepts such as Brahman, Ātman, and Māyā.
2. Indian Epistemology (Pramāṇa-śāstra) – Analysis of Advaita epistemology, Nyāya-Vaiśeṣika logic, and Jaina Syādvāda with emphasis on means of knowledge (pramāṇa) and theories of perception and inference.
3. Environmental Ethics and Eco-Philosophy – Research on ecological harmony in Indian philosophical traditions, Vedic environmental ethics, and sustainability as framed within Dharmaśāstra and Yajña principles.
4. Philosophy of Consciousness – Investigation into Indian perspectives on consciousness (Cit and Cidānanda) in relation to contemporary cognitive science and phenomenology.
5. Comparative Indian Philosophy – Analytical study of the intersections and dialogues between various Indian philosophical traditions (Advaita, Dvaita, Śaivism, Jainism, Buddhism)

6. Ethics and Non-Violence (Ahimsā-darśana) – Philosophical engagement with Indian ethical systems, particularly in Advaita Vedānta, Jainism, and Buddhist Karuṇā theory.
7. Indian Aesthetics and Cultural Heritage – Study of Nāṭyaśāstra, temple architecture, and the metaphysical symbolism of Indian art forms within the framework of rasa and dhvani theories.
8. Theory and Practice of Yoga – Examination of Yogic philosophy from classical texts (Patañjali's Yoga Sūtra, Haṭha Yoga, and Vedāntic Yoga) alongside practical applications in meditation, prāṇāyāma, and mind-body integration for holistic well-being.
